American Heart Association Newly Elected Fellows, Spring 2007

Sixty-six Premium Professional Members were elected Fellows and International Fellows of the American Heart Association (AHA) in the spring 2007. Fellows are elected on the basis of their outstanding credentials, achievements, and community contributions to the study of cardiovascular disease and stroke. Persons elected to fellowship are entitled to use FAHA, Fellow of the American Heart Association, as a professional designation. Fellows who reside outside the United States and Canada are designated International Fellows. For more information on the AHA Fellowship program, please visit our Web site at http://www.americanheart.org/presenter.jhtml?identifier=3033104
